Fall, 1956! That was the beginning of a remarkable relationship between a school and a class of students. That year marked the end of the first decade of education at our college. Ten years earlier, a local college had only been an idea in the minds of some far-sighted men, but an idea that was soon culminated by the opening of a college center in Wilmington that was affiliated with the University of North Carolina. The school grew, and, in the spring of 1948, was officially accredited by the North Carolina College Conference and became a member of the American Association of Junior Colleges.

We learned many things that perhaps we knew before, but things which seemed to gain new significance as we entered a new phase of life. We learned responsibility, for we were told early that learning was our job. It was there for us to exploit as we would. Some of us didn't make it, but most of us did, for which our hearts are glad.

We saw the results of our athletic program with the beginning of a new era of trials and achievements. A new calibre of basketball team was now representing us. Out-of-state students, along with the best of the area high schools, strengthened our teams. We saw the organization of baseball, tennis, and golf teams. And here too, we excelled. The golf team went undefeated; the tennis team won all its matches but two; and the baseball team, though not a champion, made us very proud.

Yes, our class has a great deal for which to be thankful, for ours have been good years. In retrospect, we have a lot to be proud of and thankful for. So, to you, Wilmington College, we want to say thanks for letting us be a part of you; as your tradition grows, may we be remembered for the little part we played.

OUR FRIEND AND INSTRUCTOR
DR. JOHN WAN YUI CHANG

In these days of hurry and worry, it is quite easy to overlook the high standards and high morals of a life lived as it should be. One man above all, Dr. Chang, has inspired us both by word and deed, instilling in us respect and love for our fellowman. He is a man truly dedicated to his new-found country, his task of making upstanding future citizens, and above all, dedicated to God. In recognition of his deeds of service and words of comfort in time of anxiety, and as a tribute to a man of science and a man of God, leading us in the ways of life, we proudly dedicate to Dr. Chang the 1958 edition of the Fledgling.

Dr. William M. Randall

Our Dean is certainly a man of versatile ability, as is seen by his many accomplishments. His work has taken him about the globe from Cairo, Egypt, to Casablanca, Morocco.

While looking over his past, we find that Dean Randall was born on August 6, 1899, at Belleville, Michigan. From the University of Michigan he received his A.B. and M.A. degrees. At Harvard Theological Seminary he was awarded his PH.D. in philosophy, summa cum laude, in 1929. Dr. Randall's thesis was an "Annotated Catalog of Ananikian Collection of Arabic Manuscripts."

During World War II, he served as a lieutenant colonel with the Air Force and with Military Intelligence. His tour of duty took him through the Mediterranean area, the Middle East, and North Africa.

During his career in the education field, he has been dean of students and director of libraries of the University of Georgia, and academic dean of the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy. He was a member of a committee sent to reorganize the Vatican Library at Rome. Dr. Randall is a master of languages, having taught 31 languages, and speaking eight fluently. He has written several books on library science.

Dr. Randall is listed in WHO'S WHO IN EDUCATION and also in WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA. He became Dean of Wilmington College in the fall of 1951.

A FORWARD LOOK

As we take a look into the future of our nation as well as the future of the students now enrolled at Wilmington College, we find it not only fitting but necessary to congratulate them on the goals they have set for themselves. Education, in these troubled days, has attained a two-fold meaning. No longer is it a stepping stone only for personal achievement, but now it may very well be the salvation of our nation and ideals.

With education comes a greater understanding of the problems facing our modern-day world. The students of today will be the leaders of tomorrow; the importance of this fact is self-evident. With higher and more advanced education, the peaceful solutions to world problems become more tangible.

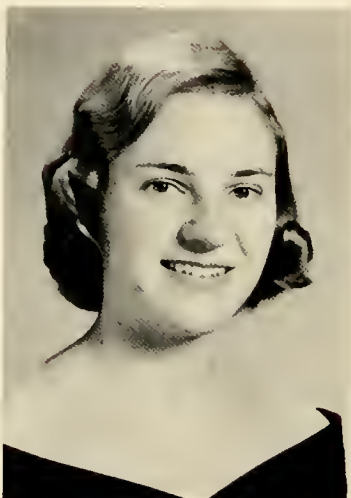

Education has become the master mason in building better citizens. That more and more people are realizing this fact is evidenced by the sacrifices made in order to attend college. Many veterans have utilized the G.I. Bill and have benefited by it greatly, and even though this incentive has been removed, still more people apply for admittance to colleges each year, the majority working part time in order to finance their education. Is this not significant proof that the young adults of today have acquired a higher set of values than those of yesterday?

Not to be forgotten are the teachers who devote their lives to the formation of higher ideals in the youth whom they teach. These teachers, who could undoubtedly gain more material forms of wealth in the business world, have set aside such ambitions for the higher calling of education. They are the backbone of our nation and democracy. Without their self-denial, their interest in the future, we would surely be lost. And for this interest the students of the world thank them most sincerely.

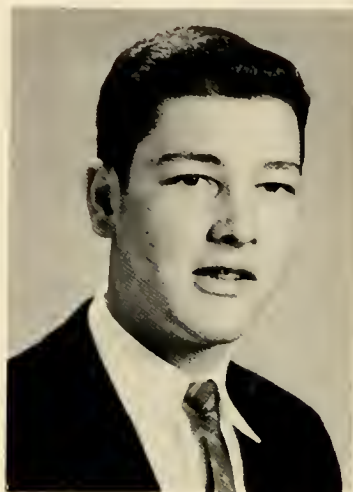

The ambition of our students, the sincerity of our teachers, and faith in God and country has made our forward look a cheerful one. We see people settling their differences in a peaceful manner, a world united, fighting only common enemies such as cancer, malaria, and the vilest of all diseases, prejudice. We see an era of peace and prosperity never before attained, a world full of love and happiness, and most important, we see a world with the cultures of all people and nations in complete harmony.

At this dance the results of the Sophomore Superlative election were announced and the winners presented to the audience by Gene Trondsen.

The core of student life at Wilmington College is its Student Government, with executive powers centered in the Student Council. The officers of the Council are elected by the student body, and the members are representatives elected by classes and clubs within the student body. The Council is a democratic organization, giving expression to student opinion and working for the best interests of the College. It promotes and upholds a high standard of morals and conduct.

The Student Council charters all recognized clubs within the College, supervises their organization and objectives, includes their representatives in its membership, and is actively represented in the North Carolina State Student Legislature.

The Circle K Club, sponsored by the Wilmington Kiwanis Club, is a member of an international organization which has the aim of creating up-standing future citizens and aiding the growth of their respective communities all over the world. Throughout the year, the Circle K Club has carried out various projects to aid our community, as food baskets, helping during the March of Dimes, and various other worthwhile endeavors. Advised by Mr. Andrew Norris, Kiwanis Club member, the organization worked together and met several times a month at the Famous Club to join to-gether in an hour of fellowship and service.

To create good will toward Spanish and French-speaking peoples, to develop an understanding of these people through an increased knowledge of their society and their culture, and to create a greater interest in romance languages--these are the objectives of the members of the Romance Languages Club.

Membership in the organization, which meets on alternate Thursday evenings, is open to those who have studied French or Spanish. The 1958 members, pictured at left, are: Helena Cheek, Advisor, Peggy Olsen, JoAnn Zimmerman, Judith Rhodes, Standing, Wilbur Taylor, Jack Kirkland, Kenneth Tucker, Gene Trondsen, and Cecil Gore.

With slide rules, drawing boards, and mathematical theory, future engineers labor at Wilmington College to master the intricacies of measurement and design. The Engineers Club is an organization of these young men who want to share experiences and build lasting friendships with those who have mutual interests. Chief among their activities this year has been a series of guided tours through local industrial plants to acquaint them with the practical applications of the theory they learn here at the college.

The Pen-pushers Club is composed of students who are interested in writing. This year the club was assigned the task of composing an alma mater and a fight song, both of which the school has done without for the ten years of its existence. The club submitted lyrics for both songs, the alma mater by Charles Hunnicutt and the fight song by Bob Shaffer with music by Loyd Hudson and Carl Wilson.

The school has officially adopted both songs. The club also published their annual booklet, "With Pen In Hand," which contained articles written by the members of the club and supplemented by the works of other interested students.

STUDENT U.N. COUNCIL

ADVISOR
George Lyons

In the fall of 1957 students of Wilmington College participated in a new activity when the college was chosen to send representatives to the first Model United Nations Assembly in the South-eastern United States. The Assembly was held in the North Carolina State Building in October of that year.

Three members of the Sophomore Class were chosen by the Student Council to represent the country of Greece at this gathering. Dick Feagin, Linda Hines, and Susan Parsons, accompanied by George Lyons, member of our faculty, made a very good impression on the other schools attending. The Collegiate Council of the United Nations served as the parent organization which sponsored this program throughout the country. North Carolina State College in Raleigh was the host.

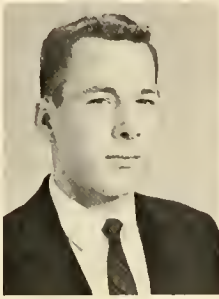

Similar to the actual workings of the United Nations, the Model Assembly was organized with three committees functioning aside from the General Plenary Sessions. Susan Parsons attended the Ad Hoc Committee, and Linda Hines represented us in the Political and Security Committee. In the Economic and Social Committee, in which Dick Feagin represented our institution and the nation of Greece, there were long and heated discussions on the disarmament talks. It was in this committee that our delegate introduced a proposal on the Cypriot disturbances. The United Nations in New York has tried for several sessions to have this question included on its agenda. In the Model Assembly this task was great, but was accomplished by the outstanding students representing Wilmington College.

Under the leadership of Mr. Lyons, the proposal passed the committee meeting and was selected as one of the resolutions to be presented before the General Plenary Session which was held on Saturday morning as the conclusion of the assembly drew near. In this general meeting, Dick Feagin, along with a student from Johnson C. Smith University, presented the resolution and spoke in favor of it. The resolution proposed to censor Great Britain for its militaristic domination of the people of Cyprus against their desire. The original proposal was amended and passed by the General Plenary Session.

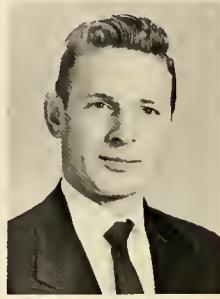

Before the closing of the first assembly, Miss Connie Curry, the area representative of the Collegiate Council of the United Nations, presided over the meeting, and four members of all the schools in attendance were elected to serve as a continuation committee to lay plans for the second Model Assembly which is to be held at Chapel Hill next year, with the University of North Carolina as host. Dick Feagin was elected to this committee along with students from U.N.C., Duke, and N.C. State College.

Wilmington College is now an active member of the Model United Nations Assembly and will continue to be active in the years to come. We are proud that we are among the colleges to be chosen to participate in this far-reaching program which, we feel, is of importance to us as future leaders of America and of the World.

For the first time in six years, a printed newspaper has been issued to the students by the Seahawk Staff, composed of Wilmington College students. In the past, the newspaper has been made up of a few mimeographed sheets. A great stride has been made by these people toward the attainment of a better student publication for the college. The paper is issued free of charge because it is supported by local business firms.

By printing the latest happenings, as well as prophesying future events, and by devoting much space to the college's sport events, the staff has gained interest and support of the entire student body.

The Fledgling, student-produced yearbook of Wilmington College, was first published in the spring of 1950. Since that time it has been a mirror reflecting the growth of the college as enrollments increased and activities broadened. Besides providing the student body with a pictorial history of itself, the Fledgling has fulfilled a need of its staff members, providing for them rich personal experiences and associations they will long remember.

A flashdown the court, a pass, a bounce, a pivot, the shrill whistle of the referee can be heard above the tumult of screaming fans. A Seahawk is on the foul line. Fans hold their breath and fingernails dig into flesh as suspense mounts. Thrilling? What can be more exciting or memorable than a basketball game when all is at stake? Here at Wilmington College Basketball is the major sport, and while our team hasn't set any records this year, we have been proud to cheer them on in every game.

The game of basketball was originated here in the United States by a physical education instructor in the Y.M.C.A. in 1891. Since that time the rules of the sport have changed, but the basic concept of the contest remains the same. It was designed to be an ideal game to fill the winter gap in sports activities between the close of football season and the beginning of baseball season. Basketball has been classified as the second fastest sport in the world. As we look towards the future, we think that many changes in the game and types of players will be witnessed.

As the game of tennis increases in popularity around the world, we here at Wilmington College should be proud that in our midst there are a few men who possess the ability to control a racket and excel in a contest. Looking ahead, we have a few netters who should provide some keen competition for the other conference schools.

Each new year finds goals attained in many fields here at Wilmington College. This year the Seahawk Golf Team entered competition for the first time. It was with great anticipation that we approached the green fairways of the course, for this is truly a game of skill. An improper stroke can cost the player the match. New problems arise daily, but under the guidance of a good instructor all can learn to cope with such adverse conditions. The conference schedule was hard but well worth the effort to each and all.

A Pitch for Recreation

It's spring again! It's time for birds, bees, and little boys on baseball diamonds again. Boys need a place to play.

Come to bat for your town. Help it acquire the parks, pools, and playgrounds it needs. You'll enjoy camping and picnic areas, golf courses, and tennis courts it should have. Libraries, museums, and auditoriums are needed too!

Recreational facilities will be an important factor to industry considering your town for a possible site. Recreation is a partner in good health. It's a social force that checks juvenile delinquency. It molds good character.

Don't let your town strike out in its drive for a better recreational program. Your Finer Carolina Committee needs your help in making your town a finer place to work and play.
